MORGAN HAS SCHEME TO ADVERTISE

WOULD BUILD BIG SPORTS ARENA SOMEWHERE IN STATE

BELIEVES SUCH PLACE WOULD DRAW ATHLETES AND IM-MENSE CROWDS TO FLORIDA
EVERY WINTER.

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 3 — Among the arrivals on the Clyde liner, Apache, was a man whose name was quite well known in connection with Florida sports a few years ago, W. J. Morgan of New York, known as the discoverer of Daytona beach for automobile racing, who in 1902 and up to 1907 promoted, with the aid of the Florida East Coast Automobile association of Daytona, the famous races.

It was in 1904 when W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., drove his racing car at Daytona the mile record of 39 seconds, that first brought the Florida beach into world renown, and for several winters the most famous drivers of Europe were successful in making records on the Florida sand. The last races that Mr. Morgan was connected with were those of 1907.

For several winters Morgan also gave the motor boat carnivals on Lake Worth, Palm Beach, and it was there the famous Dixie made the fastest mile for a speed boat up to that time. The "flag to flag" motor boat race, Miami to Nassau, was another of the Morgan promotions. The Meriel, one of the boats, on which were a number of New York newspaper men with Morgan, came near to grief on Castle Rocks, the boat having dragged her anchor after going forty miles out of her course during the race. The government, at Mr. Morgan's request, had sent the gun boat, Scorpion, to escort the race across the gulf, but as it was rough water, her commander hesitated, and through some mistake the Meriel, notwithstanding the rough weather, started and arrived first at Nassau but was disqualified.

Speaking of those days Morgan remarked that about the craziest thing that he had done in Florida sport promotions was the automobile race from Jacksonville to Miami, which Dr. Stinson won. The usual Jonah followed the New York newspaper crowd as the press car was stuck in the mud between Ft. Pierce and Jupiter all night and was assisted to firm land the next morning by Claude Nolan of Jacksonville, who was in the race with a single cylinder Cadillac, and who would have taken second place but for his losing a wheel between Palm Beach and Miami while going through Delray in the night at twenty-five miles an hour.

Mr. Morgan is in Florida for a few days only on some real estate business, accompanied by James W. Johnston of Toronto, Canada, who was formerly manager of one of the largest hardware and sporting goods wholesale establishments of the Canadian city, but now retired; and

WILSON ASKS NEW JERSEY TRUST LAWS

STILL HOLDS BACK NAMES OF SELECTIONS FOR HIS CABINET

PRESIDENT-ELECT EXPRESSES REGRET THAT NEW MEXICO IS TO BE THE 36TH STATE TO RATIFY AMENDMENT.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 3—Governor Woodrow Wilson today urged the New Jersey legislature to pass the trust bill now under consideration.

The president-elect still insists he has not fully made up his mind as to his cabinet selections. It is believed he will withhold the names of his cabinet appointees until the eve of his inauguration.

President-elect Wilson today expressed regret at the probability that New Mexico will be the 36th state to ratify the income tax amendment to the United States constitution. He had hoped that honor would go to New Jersey, as that number clinches the ratification of the amendment.

J. L. Pattillo, postmaster and merchant of Port Orange, was a Daytona visitor this morning.

BITTER FIGHT EXPECTED ON PROHIBITION

CLOSING WEEKS OF SESSION OF CONGRESS TO BE EXCITING

CLASH TO COME OVER WEBB
BILL, WHICH IS TO PREVENT SHIPMENT OF LIQUOR INTO DRY TERRITORY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — A bitter fight that is expected to split party lines over prohibition will mark the last two weeks of the present session of congress, if the plans of the prohibition congressmen succeed.

The fight will come over the Webb bill, which provides the prevention of interstate shipment of liquor from "wet" into "dry" territory. The bill is now in the hands of the committee, which will take action whether to report the bill to the house next Wednesday.

J. Lees, at one time engaged in the Daytona Cold Storage store, came here Saturday from the west coast to spend a day or two before going to points on the lower East Coast.

TURKS AGAIN APPEAL FOR INTERVENTION

FEAR CHATALJA FORTS CAN'T BE HELD AGAINST ATTACK

SECOND ATTEMPT IS MADE TO KILL ENVER BEY AND FIVE OF TROOPS DEFENDING HIM ARE KILLED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 3 — Because of the mutinous conditions in the Turkish armies defending the forts of Chatalja, fears are openly expressed today that the works can not be held against a combined attack by the Bulgarians and Servians. Several of the Turkish officers have been assassinated, the soldiers are constantly brawling and almost pitched battles are taking place between the regiments.

The second attempt to kill Enver Bey, the young Turk leader, has been made and five of the troops defending him were killed in the attempt.

The Turkish government today made another appeal to Germany, Austria and Italy for intervention to stop a renewal of hostilities.

Heavy Losses in Battle—
BELGRADE, Feb. 3—A battle has been fought between the Servians and Turks near Dibra, in Albania, and both sides lost heavily in the fighting.

Begin Battle Tonight—
LONDON, Feb. 3—The bombardment of Adrianople by the Bulgarian artillery will begin tonight, according to dispatches from Sofia. The diplomats however, are working hard to prevent a renewal of hostilities.

Among the winter visitors in Daytona at this time are Mr. and Mrs. Lennuel B. Green of Patchogue, N. Y., guests at the Tourist. Mr. Green is the editor of the Patchogue Argus.

BURMAN MAY BRING BIG BENZ HERE

ANXIOUS TO MAKE TESTS OF SPEED ON FASTEST SPEEDWAY

FAMOUS DRIVER ON WAY HOME FROM EUROPE, WHERE HE HAS JUST PURCHASED TWO NEW AUTOMOBILES.

Since the recent speed trials of Bob Burman with his new Benz car on the beach at San Diego, his manager, E. A. Moross is getting anxious to bring the speed king to Daytona for a trial against speed on the beach where Burman lowered the world's record with the old Blitzen Benz two years ago.

Mr. Moross says he is confident Burman can make a mile in 20 seconds on Daytona beach with the big new Benz, and is trying to arrange a plan by which he can bring Burman and his string of cars here some time next month.

Mr. Burman has been in Europe looking for additional fast cars and has just wired Mr. Moross he has purchased two new cars, which will be shipped to New York as soon as they can be got ready. Burman started for home last week. As soon as he arrives in New York Moross will ship his cars to New Orleans for speed exhibitions during the Mardi Gras, and wants to bring his outfit to Daytona after the engagement at New Orleans.

Both Moross and Burman are anxious to see what the big Benz will do on this beach, acknowledged to be the fastest automobile speedway in the world.

MAKES A BIG DISCOVERY

Shortington Finds That Things Once Belonged May Prove Great Blessing.

"You know how opposites are attracted," said Mr. Shortington. "When I was a younger man my very particular friend and chum was a chap who was six feet four, while I wasn't much more than four feet six. Despite the disparity in our dimensions we were the closest of friends, and as far as I was concerned there was only one thing that marred my otherwise complete happiness and that was that I could not be as tall as he. But the time came when I thought differently about that, and when in fact, instead of being proud of his attitude, wished only that he had been built on my more limited scale, and that was when in our later life we had both come to be afflicted with rheumatism."

"Then when I looked at him, racked with pain throughout his tall frame, I was glad that I was not tall but short, and when he reflected on the nearly two feet more of space in himself that the rheumatism had to roam over he used to groan and wish that he had been built short like me."

"Isn't it singular how things come about?" The things that at one time we may most bemoan may prove in the end our greatest blessing."

Makes Unique Home.

In Jarcanto, Spain, a case has occurred which is probably unique of its kind. A child has just been born while his father, grandfather, great-grandfather and great-great-grandfather are all living. His name is Urdonoches, and the family are Basque farm laborers. The great-grandfather and the great-great-grandfather have acted as godfathers to the latest arrival. The united family constitutes nearly a whole village.

Royal Letters Prized.

Royal letter writers may expect that, in the vicinities of the centuries, their popularity will come to the test of that democratic implement, the auctioneer's hammer. Judged by this standard, King Edward III. and Queen Elizabeth have no reason to feel slighted. In London the other day one of the King's letters sold for $1,450, and a letter from Queen Elizabeth to Henry III. of France brought $1,225.

Strings to Friendship.

"I suppose every man's friendship is worth having?" said the young man who is studying politics. "Certain not the delusion," replied Senator Sorghum. "You must select with caution, owing to the fact that when you accept a man's friendship you incidentally acquire the neutral enmity of everybody who doesn't approve of him."

A MAN YOU KNOW.

Mr. Kenney has been manager of the Hotel Clarendon since the new hotel was opened.

Representative Carter Glass of Virginia is chairman of the sub-committee of the money trust investigating committee which is considering currency reform and the Aldrich plan.

It will be absolutely fireproof, and is being built of the great boulders of Sunset Mountain, at whose foot it sits. It is being built by hand in the old-fashioned way. Full of rest and comfort and wholesomeness.

¶ The front lawn is the hundred-acre eighteen-hole golf links of the Asheville Country Club, and with it sixty acres of our own lawn.

¶ The purest water obtainable anywhere, piped seventeen miles, from the slopes of Mount Mitchell, over 6000 feet altitude. Biltmore milk and cream exclusively, supplied from 200 registered Jerseys on the estate of Mr. Geo. W. Vanderbilt. It is doubtful if this famous dairy is equaled in the world.

¶ Four hundred one-piece rugs are being made at Aubusson, France. Seven hundred pieces of the furniture are being made by hand by the Roycrofters. The silver will be hand-hammered.

¶ The plumbing material will be the finest that has ever been placed in any hotel in the world. The soil pipe has been hydraulically tested and then galvanized. The hot water pipe, 18,000 lbs. in weight, will be solid brass. The steam pipes are Byers genuine lap-welded wrought iron tested hydraulically to 1000 lbs. The bathtubs and fixtures all solid porcelain. No pipes visible anywhere. No radiators to be seen—all placed in recesses under windows. No electric bulbs to be seen.

¶ The "Big Room," or what some call the lobby, is 80 feet by 120, and the rugs in this one room will be worth $5000.00. The two great fireplaces in it will burn twelve-foot logs.

¶ For the golfers we are building lockers and shower bath rooms with a forty-foot swimming pool that will not be excelled by the finest clubs in existence, and the players will be less than 100 yards distant when they are on the links.

¶ Mr. Wm. S. Kenney, of Bretton Woods, N. H., who has shown in his management of The Mount Washington hotel and Hotel Clarendon, that he is the peer of hotel keepers, will manage the Inn.

¶ We own eight hundred acres around the Inn (consumptives not taken).

¶ Especially available for northern guests in the Spring, Fall and Winter, going or returning from farther southern resorts, or for an all Winter resort.

¶ The Inn is located on the side of Sunset Mountain, about a mile from the top, and is not only cool enough in the Summer to make a blanket necessary at night, but is protected and mild enough in the Winter to make life enjoyable without enervation.

PLAYS EVER BROUGHT HERE*SENTIMENT OF MOTHER LOVE*STRONGLY SHOWN IN THE*EMOTIONAL ACTING OF MISS*ADELAIDE FRENCH.One of the best, if not the best, dramatic event ever brought to Daytona was the offering of Madame X, with Adelaide French in the titlerole, in prologue and three acts, at the New Daytona theater Saturday night, and those who missed the play, and there are many for the audience was small, may well feel sorry for having missed the dramatic treat of the season.The play is strong, depicting the all-moving sentiment of mother love and strong hearted men as well as gentle women were moved to tears as the clever acting brought out the plot of the play and carried in along to its climax.

The plot, in brief, unfolds that an erring wife, realizing that her baby is sick, returns to her home and is turned from the door by the angry husband and father. The early sin of Jacqueline Floriot and her flight from the side of her cold, unsympathetic husband, are told in the prologue.The repentance of the husband and his subsequent search for his missing wife are told in the acts following. A lapse of a score of years shows the castoff wife and mother going from bad to worse, the victim of drink and drugs and in unsavory quarters. She is in anguish over the realization of her surroundings and the memories of her former happy home with husband and child. In a drug-drunk frenzy she kills Laroque, an adventurer, to prevent him from revealing her whereabouts to her husband and child for the purpose of blackmail.Raymond Floriot, now a young lawyer, is assigned by the court to defend the woman, who refuses to give any explanation for her crime.

It is only at the trial, when the public prosecutor mentions the name of the defendant's counsel, that the woman learns that the youth who is to plead for her life is her son.
The boy's appeal is successful and freedom is won for the mother, who is restored to her family and dies in the arms of her son, when identities become known.Adelaide French in the title role was superb in her emotionalism. The heart-broken yearnings of losing her husband and son through a paramour kept the audience in her sympathy throughout the play. Her denunciation of the false lover was among the best of her dramatic efforts, and when, in frenzy, she slays him, her stage ability was shown at a most powerful degree. Miss French possesses a magnetic personality and her appreciation of the finer feelings of the lines were artistically portrayed.Malcolm Owen as Raymond Floriot, the young lawyer, in the scene of the son defending the mother, contributed praiseworthy effort. His plea for clemency of the court for the storm-driven woman was filled with intensity.Frederick Smith, as the husband, was dignified and his acting consistent throughout. Frederick Bal-win, as Laroque, an adventurer, was good and he carried his part ably.
Eunice Parker in the part of Rose was especially good and Henry Sharpe as Noel aptly depicted the character. The principals were supported by a more than usually capable company.G. H. Hulet and party of friends are enjoying a fishing trip down the river, having left here Saturday aboard Mr. Hulet's yacht, Happy Moments. They will return, some time this week.Deserving of Sympathy."I am the mother of 21 children," declared a woman at Tower Bridge police court, who was alleged to be an habitual drunkard, "and I have always made my children's clothes, mended their boots, and cut their hair." "We all sympathize with you," remarked the magistrate, Mr. Cecil Chapman.— London Daily Mail.MORGAN HAS SCHEME TO ADVERTISE STATE

Hermann C. Maas, who represents several Toronto people interested in Florida property."It seems to me," said Mr. Morgan, "that there is room in Florida at some central location for a big winter sporting arena, where all legiti-mate sports other than horse racing could be conducted for say, three months of the season. I would include all athletic sports and a motor drome might also be part of the program, as well as aeroplaning. There is no place in the country as well suited for athletic sports as Florida.
A baseball field would attract the big base ball teams, and there is no doubt about a big revenue being secured if the grounds were located so that the people could get to them.
That is, they should be located within reach of the greatest population, and therefore it should not be too far from Jacksonville. Florida needs such an advertisement that the leading athletes and their contests would furnish daily. It would be the best and cheapest advertising the state could get, and it might be a state fair, promoted by the state itself.
People would come from all over the United States to see contests between the best known men. If the grounds could be located near a river or lake, I would include rowing. What splendid training for the season's athletic work such preparation would furnish, and surely make the prepared ones superior in the north when the outdoor season started."One of the propositions that Morgan has in mind, and in which the late John Anderson of Ormond, was also interested, is a winter home for newspaper men, located somewhere on the east or west coast, located near to a railroad. Sir Thomas Dewar of London, who gave Morgan the thousand-dollar speed cup for the Daytona races for the fastest mile, and who also gave the challenge shield for the motor boat races at Palm Beach, was interested in the newspaper home proposition and told Anderson and Morgan that he would possibly like to build such a place, and this fact has not been forgotten.Speaking of the late Mr. Anderson, Morgan declared that the cause of good roads both in Florida and in the White mountains had lost a great champion when Mr. Anderson died. "John Anderson," said Morgan, "was one of the greatest men I have ever met; and if ever there was a nobleman on this earth, then it was John Anderson, who was never tired of doing good. His vision was keen and he foresaw the need of roads and plenty of them.
His assistance and that of his partner, J. D. Price, now, alas, dead too, was of the greatest help to me, both in Florida and in the White mountains, where I gave 'the climb to the clouds,' up Mt. Washington for automobiles. It is too bad such men as John Anderson are with us so short a time; they should live forever."INTERESTING RIDES

America. The altar is still extant, but at a later date the building was used as a sugar mill.SPANISH SUGAR MILL—2 miles ruins of Spanish sugar mills.TURTLE MOUND—26 miles south of Daytona; reached by boat; a mammoth mound of oyster shells supposed to have been left by a prehistoric race of people. Pot-been discovered in excavating the shell.PORT ORANGE—an attractive town 6 miles south of Daytona, can be reached by motor over hard-sur-

Port Orange bridge, the return can be made on the ocean beach.CLARENDON GOLF LINKS—2 miles daughter, Miss Golda Mae Atwood, to their home last Saturday afternoon in honor of her 11th birthday anniversary.The affair had been kept from the knowledge of Miss Golda and when she returned home with a girl friend whom she had been visiting, she was very much surprised to find so many of her young friends gathered at her home. They showered her with presents and she also received a number of gifts from her parents and grandmother and other friends here as well as many from her Connecticut relatives and friends.After refreshments had been enjoyed, the little hostess took her guests out in an automobile, had their pictures taken by a pho-

the theater, where they had a delightful time, following which they returned to their respective homes.*Aprons, 10c up. Any kind you

HER AMNESIA

A Young Girl Experiences
Loss of Memory

By MARJORIE CLOUGH

There was trouble in the Marsfield home. Bertha Marsfield, fifteen years old, had gone to bed the night before with a racking headache, and when her mother went into her room the next morning Bertha looked up at her with a singular expression on her face and asked:

"Who are you?"

"What's the matter with you, Bertha? Has your headache passed?"

"I don't know who you are," Bertha looked about her as though dazed. She seemed trying to remember her surroundings, but could not. "Where am I? Where was I yesterday?"

"Great heavens!" exclaimed her mother, kneeling beside her and taking the child in her arms. "Are you ill, dearie?" she asked in a frightened tone.

"No, but I don't know how I came here, and I don't know who you are. I don't know anything."

The agonized mother hurried out of the room, telephoned for the family physician and then announced to the family that something strange was the matter with Bertha. The doctor was asked to come at once. He did so and was immediately taken to the bedside of the little girl. Though he had often attended her, she had no remembrance of him whatever.

It was plain that overnight Bertha had been attacked with amnesia, or loss of memory. How long it would last, whether she would ever recover, was uncertain. Her parents were stunned by the blow. Their daughter had up to that day been a bright, attractive girl just budding into womanhood. Now suddenly she had become, as it were, another being—not another person, for her body remained the same. But all the past fifteen years of her life in which she had been tenderly cared for by her parents, all her love for them, all her associations, had been suddenly blotted out.

A parent is more likely to love a crippled child than a perfect one, and, although whatever affection was to be derived thereafter from Bertha must grow again, her father and mother lavished upon her still greater love than before. For a time they kept a close watch over her, never permitting her to leave the house; but, since she seemed in other respects than loss of memory perfectly well, they finally gave her more liberty, and in time she was returned to school. She was a fairly good scholar, but did not take the high stand in her classes as before her affliction.

An attachment had been in process of formation between Bertha and Paul Drury, a youth of eighteen, who at the time of her affliction had recently entered college. That they were great friends was known to their parents, though the latter were not aware of any more serious feeling between them. Soon after Bertha's stroke Paul came home on a short visit, and the Marsfields were anxious to know if she had forgotten him as well as the others. He came to see her and received the first shock of his life when Bertha, passing through a room where he was, failed to recognize him.

Paul when he next went home on vacation received another disappointment, hearing that Bertha had replaced the intimacy that had existed between them. A young man of twenty, George Atwood, was known to be with her a great deal. Since Bertha was now sixteen years old it was to be inferred that these attentions came from a man to a woman rather than from a boy to a girl. This naturally added to Paul's disappointment.

For a short time after Bertha's loss of memory she was told of the relationship that had existed between her and various persons, but it was found better to cease giving her such information, though all those who had previously been intimate with her were aware of her condition. She was not told of the boy and girl attachment that had existed between her and Paul Drury, and whenever they met she passed him without recognition. Being a young man of deep feeling and withal now conscious of his love for the Bertha that had been, these meetings were inexpressibly painful to him.

The affair between Atwood and Bertha progressed and, when Bertha reached her nineteenth year, came to a head. Atwood for a time had not been told that Bertha had had another identity. When he was informed of the fact he was much troubled and attempted to withdraw from his intimacy with her. But he found it impossible. Youth is reckless and prone to take upon itself prospective troubles an older person would shun. Feeling that life without the girl he loved would be unbearable, he resigned himself to accept with her whatever the future might bring forth.

Bertha's parents were bitterly opposed to their daughter's marriage with any one. They considered that she was liable at any time to recover her former identity, and if such a change should occur it would be infinitely better that she should be at home and under their care. They dreaded lest this change might come while she happened to be among strangers and might be attended with unfortunate consequences. Bertha felt they were right about this, and her own judgment told her it would be far better for her to remain under the care of her mother than to run the risks attending the establishment of a home of her own. She therefore told her lover that she had decided to remain with her parents.

Atwood for a time endeavored to acquiesce in the decision, but the wish being father to the thought after thinking the matter over, he came to the conclusion that if Bertha as his wife should return to her former self she could get used to her husband and children as she had done in the case of her father's family. He returned to pressing his suit and finally persuaded Bertha to marry him. But her consent was given only if backed by that of her parents. It required a great deal of time to obtain this consent, and when finally Mr. and Mrs. Marsfield yielded it was rather a permission than a conversion, and only on condition that the engagement should be a long one.

Mrs. Marsfield succeeded in prolonging the betrothal despite the fact that Atwood made several attempts to have a wedding day set. Bertha was twenty-one years of age and had not yet been married when she was attacked by a fever. She grew worse every day till the disease culminated, and the doctor said one evening that she would not live till morning. But during the night there came a change for the better, and she fell into a light slumber. From this she awoke at dawn while her mother was bending over her.

"Oh, mamma," she said in a faint voice, "how much better I feel!"

Her mother caressed and encouraged her and sent a nurse to tell the others that Bertha showed signs of great improvement, then turned again to the patient.

"Mamma," said Bertha, "has Paul been here to ask for me since I have been ill?"

In a moment it flashed through the mother's mind that the first Bertha had returned, the second—well, she did not know what would become of the second.

"Paul?" she said to gain time.

"Yes, I know he was away at college when I was taken ill. But surely he has sent to learn as to my condition."

Paul Drury had been graduated not only from college, but from a law school and had just been admitted to the bar.

Mrs. Marsfield saw at once that this return to a previous existence must not be broken to the invalid in her present condition. She said that Paul Drury had sent frequent inquiries as to Bertha's condition, and, giving the nurse instructions not to talk with the patient till her return, slipped away to apprise the household of the transformation.

The matter of informing Bertha as to her loss of and return to her memory of the past was put off as long as possible, but when she saw one of her sisters, who had been a child, grown to be a woman, an explanation must be given. When George Atwood heard that Bertha had returned to her former identity and that her first act was to ask for Paul Drury he determined after a struggle that it would be best for himself and all others concerned that he should not see her again. Later he sailed for South America, where a business opening presented itself, and he never returned.

The meeting between Paul Drury and Bertha was a singular one. Paul had often seen her and she had seen him, but not to remember him as her youthful lover. She found it difficult to connect the man of twenty-three with the boy of eighteen. But the germs of a former love were not dead.

As Mrs. Marsfield had not told her daughter after her loss of memory of her first lover, so after her recovery she refrained from telling her of the second.

George Atwood was not resigning the girl he loved. That girl had been a twin, who was dead, or, rather, a continuance for a few years of a new existence in the same body as the former. It was like loving one who had been born into the world at fifteen and passed away without going through the death process after an existence of half a dozen years.

Paul Drury and Bertha were married. Paul was assured by the doctors that his wife was not especially liable to an experience similar to the first, but he never felt sure that she would not.

No Monument to Eve.

The proposal to erect a statue in honor of Eve may be dismissed without inquiry as to the worth of the woman. It simply wouldn't do. The garb of the first woman of the land does not lend itself both to the statutory scheme and the growing sensitiveness of the public as to the amount of drapery necessary to make a marble person au fait.—Los Angeles Tribune.

His Habits Unchanged.

"The conditions seem to be unfavorable," admitted the trance medium. "I am unable to get any communication from your late husband." "Well, I'm not at all surprised," replied the widow. "It's only nine o'clock now, and John never did show up till about two a. m."

This Age of Nerves.

The tendency of modern civilization has been to transfer the burden of breadwinning from the muscles to the nerves.—Exchange.

Just Before the Battle.

"Would you marry him if he were me?" "I'd marry any one that asked me, if I were you."—Houston Post.

Free Lecture on Christian Science

AT THE PALMETTO CLUB HOUSE

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 3RD, AT 8:00 P. M.

By Wm. R. Rathvon, C. S. B., of Denver, Col.

Member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientists, in Boston, Mass.

"Christian Science, similarly relying wholly upon divine Principle, has no relationship with will power, mental science, hypnotism, mesmerism, auto-suggestion, thought transference, spiritualism or any of the other cults or schools which rely wholly or in part upon the influence of one human mind or human will upon another. These are essentially adverse to the teachings of Christian Science, wherein the human mind and human will are made wholly subordinate and subservient to the divine Mind, the will of God. Success in Christian Science is only attained as fallible human mentality is eliminated."

The ferry will leave Daytona Beach Monday evening at 7:30 and return after the lecture.
